Robert A. Myers — Ian Wallace
Hans H. Wellisch — Ralph Lee Woodward, Jr.

John J. Horton is Deputy Librarian of the University of Bradford and currently Chairman of its Academic Board of Studies in Social Sciences. He has maintained a longstanding interest in the discipline of area studies and its associated bibliographical problems, with special reference to European Studies. In particular he has published in the field of Icelandic and of Yugoslav studies, including the two relevant volumes in the World Bibliographical Series.

Robert A. Myers is Associate Professor of Anthropology in the Division of Social Sciences and Director of Study Abroad Programs at Alfred University, Alfred, New York. He has studied post-colonial island nations of the Caribbean and has spent two years in Nigeria on a Fulbright Lectureship. His interests include international public health, historical anthropology and developing societies. In addition to Amerindians of the Lesser Antilles: a bibliography (1981), A Resource Guide to Dominica, 1493-1986 (1987) and numerous articles, he has compiled the World Bibliographical Series volumes on Dominica (1987), Nigeria (1989) and Ghana (1991).

Ian Wallace is Professor of German at the University of Bath. A graduate of Oxford in French and German, he also studied in Tübingen, Heidelberg and Lausanne before taking teaching posts at universities in the USA, Scotland and England. He specializes in contemporary German affairs, especially literature and culture, on which he has published numerous articles and books. In 1979 he founded the journal GDR Monitor, which he continues to edit under its new title German Monitor.

Hans H. Wellisch is Professor emeritus at the College of Library and Information Services, University of Maryland. He was President of the American Society of Indexers and was a member of the International Federation for Documentation. He is the author of numerous articles and several books on indexing and abstracting, and has published The Conversion of Scripts, Indexing and Abstracting: an International Bibliography and Indexing from A to Z. He also contributes frequently to Journal of the American Society for Information Science, The Indexer and other professional journals.

Ralph Lee Woodward, Jr. is Professor of History at Tulane University, New Orleans. He is the author of Central America, a Nation Divided, 2nd ed. (1985), as well as several monographs and more than seventy scholarly articles on modern Latin America. He has also compiled volumes in the World Bibliographical Series on Belize (1980), Nicaragua (1983), El Salvador (1988) and Guatemala (Rev. Ed.) (1992). Dr. Woodward edited the Central American section of the Research Guide to Central America and the Caribbean (1985) and is currently associate editor of Scribner's Encyclopedia of Latin American History.

THE WORLD BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SERIES

This series, which is principally designed for the English speaker, will eventually cover every country (and many of the world's principal regions), each in a separate volume comprising annotated entries on works dealing with its history, geography, economy and politics; and with its people, their culture, customs, religion and social organization. Attention will also be paid to current living conditions – housing, education, newspapers, clothing, etc.– that are all too often ignored in standard bibliographies; and to those particular aspects relevant to individual countries. Each volume seeks to achieve, by use of careful selectivity and critical assessment of the literature, an expression of the country and an appreciation of its nature and national aspirations, to guide the reader towards an understanding of its importance. The keynote of the series is to provide, in a uniform format, an interpretation of each country that will express its culture, its place in the world, and the qualities and background that make it unique. The views expressed in individual volumes, however, are not necessarily those of the publisher.

Preface

This bibliography is intended to be a representative survey of the main literature in both English and French, rather than a comprehensive listing. The latter would in any case have been impossible. As we have became painfully aware as we have proceeded with the compilation, Senegal, considering its relatively small size, is probably one of the best documented countries in Africa. Porgès' monumental bibliographies contain over 7,000 items up to the mid-1970s, and the flood of material has continued since.

This is due to several factors. The first is the extent of historical literature: the earliest relevant items are from Arab accounts from around the turn of the millennium, with European sources beginning during the 15th century with the arrival of the Portuguese. The second factor is the concentration of the main French educational and research institutions for the whole of French West Africa in Dakar during the colonial period. One result of this was the creation of the magnificent Dakar archives which have provided the basis for literally dozens of excellent monographs in history and the social sciences. Another was the establishment of specialist research institutes and units, the most famous of which is probably the Institut Fondamental (previously Français) d'Afrique Noire (IFAN) which through its journals and monograph series has made much of the research on the country widely available. There are also other examples, such as the psychiatric research group founded by Henri Collomb in the 1950s, the groups of demographers and anthropologists working in the south east of the country, and the Centre for Applied Linguistics in Dakar (CLAD).

Related to this is a third factor. Due to the country's close links with France, Senegalese scholars were among the first Africans to study in France itself, including many of the pioneers of African literature in French. Again, considering the size of the country, it has produced an astonishingly high proportion of Africa's distinguished

Indexes

There follow three separate indexes: authors (personal and corporate); titles; and subjects. Title entries are italicized and refer either to the main titles, or to many other works cited in the annotations. The numbers refer to bibliographic entry rather than page numbers. Individual index entries are arranged in alphabetical sequence.
